The Little Girl and the Baby.

A little girl about 6 years old was visiting friends, and during the course of the conversation one of them remarked:

"I hear you have a new little sister?"

"Yes," answered the little girl. "Just two weeks old."

"Did you want it to be a little girl?" asked the friend.

"No; I wanted it to be a boy," she replied, "but it came while I was at school."—Harper's Monthly Magazine.

Tonight unsettled; colder. Wednesday partly cloudy and colder.

A Simple Weather Barometer.

You can tell what the weather is going to be by the appearance of your morning cup of coffee. When the bubbles collect in the center of the cup and form a "kiss," you can tell the day is going to be fine. When they rush to the side of the cup you had better look out for squalls. Rain is not absolutely certain, but it is very likely. It is the condition of the atmosphere that effects the tiny bubbles.
